Late entries will require payment of $20 per piece. As with all things, costs have risen and we must ensure we cover these to the best of our ability. Our Selectors

We have secured 2 new selectors for this year and they are Kay Bazzard a Figurative Ceramic Artist and Tryphena Cracknell an artist of many talents- both from Hawkes Bay. They are looking forward to being involved with the exhibition and we know they will be judging some great artworks from so many talented artists across our region.

Kay Bazzard

Kay has a strong interest in the arts which has recently lead her to join the Toimairangi Contemporary Maori Arts School. Kay has had a 20 year career of ceramic sculpture focusing on the human figure exploring gesture, expression and movement - drawing on her emotional history and observation and interpreting moods and behaviours. Her work has been extensively exhibited and is regularly selected for national sculpture awards. Her work is held in private collections here, in Australia, UK and Europe

Tryphena Cracknell

Tryphena Cracknell is Te Matau a Maui born and bred. She has spent most of her career working in museums and art galleries as a curator, historian and Kaitiaki Taonga Māori. Her published writing focusses on art, textiles, fashion, Māori arts practice and contemporary jewellery. In recent years, she has worked in conservation, caring for our living tāonga- flora and fauna. She is looking forward to supporting the arts and seeing Hawke's Bay artist's creativity in action
